FAMILY LAW LEGAL SERVICES

The Galt Police Department and Chicks In Crisis will be opening their doors on a weekly basis to provide access to family law legal services to all domestic violence victims including, but not limited to, spousal abuse, dating violence, stalking, child custody, child abduction, elder abuse, and human trafficking.

In addition, the Sacramento Regional Family Justice Center, in partnership with the Galt Police Department and Chicks In Crisis, will be providing a mobile legal team to provide holistic civil legal services to victims that need help at the Sacramento Family Court. Chicks In Crisis is a teen parenting program that offers assistance to young parents as they work on their education and help provide for their families. Many of these young parents may be victims who want to access the courts for restraining orders and other related family law matters. The Galt Police Department is opening the doors of their community room for victims who need access for the same services.
